NEXT WEEK:

Next week 5B and 5H are going to the National Gallery in order to study landscapes as part of their Art theme this term. They will look at how a range of artists approach this genre and undertake a workshop.

Year 3 also have Egyptians Day on Thursday and I am looking forward to seeing all of the costumes they have made and am sure they will enjoy the sessions which will all link to their History topic.

THIS WEEK:

Thank you also to parents and carers who were able to attend the Open Mornings last week. The children really valued you coming in. To remind parents when coming into the school mobile phones cannot be used and photographs and videos cannot be approved to ensure all pupils safety. We really value your time however also need to remind parents that they should only be looking at their own child's work and should not be communicating with other children while on site inline with our safeguarding policy.

Our Year One undertook their Phonics tests this week and should be really proud of how well they did. We try to ensure that the process is as stress free and relaxed as it can be so that they do not feel under pressure and they showed great resilience through the week. Phonics scores will be verified and sent out to parents later this term with reports.

Thank you to all of the parents who were able to support our book fair this week. This was a great success with all proceeds going towards books for EYFS and Nursery this year.
